

December 6, 2006
For more information, please contact
Margaret Keough
816-457-6132 or margaret@kemperart.org

BETWEEN-HOLIDAYS EVENT TO ENTERTAIN FAMILIES AT KEMPER MUSEUM OF CONTEMPORARY ART

Are your little angels turning restless over the winter break? Bring them to Home for the Holidays Family Event: Remember Me, an event with hands-on activities, gallery guides, and live dulcimer music from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m., Wednesday, December 27 at the Kemper Museum of Contemporary Art. Admission to the Museum and this event is free.

After spending time in the Museum's exhibitions Remembering the Future and Lisa Sanditz: Flyover, children and adults may create cards to send to friends or make a collage about a person, place, or experience. Museum-goers also can make a mini scrapbook to store fabricated visual memories. All materials, including some donated by K & Company, are provided.

Kansas City musician Jeffrey Ruckman will play the dulcimer in the Museum's atrium, where the hands-on activities take place.

Free children's self-guided activities also are available in both exhibitions Remembering the Future (on view through January 28) and Lisa Sanditz: Flyover (on view through January 7).

Children must be accompanied by an adult. No reservations are required.

Home for the Holidays is sponsored by Payless ShoeSource Foundation.

(end)

